

I want a new portfolio website to highlight the work that I have accomplished so far. It should have a navbar.

This portfolio should be fully built out with a hero section that has a typing animation of different roles. For example "My name is [name] and I'm a (insert roles here)"

It should have a picture of me in the hero section.

Following this, I would like an about me section. It should include my education, a description of myself.

I should have a section with a list of my various work experiences. There should be a list of bullet points for each experience showing what I did. I should also be able to attach an image to each experience to show where I worked.

I Also want a projects section that should have a picture, title, description, and read more links to view more on the project. There should be a footer as well.

I want this to be lightning themed. It should have a lot of cool animations, I want it to be white and blue themed.
